Duration:

160 minutes inc. interval

A short description of the performance:

Although the story of Faust is based on the medieval legend about a man who sells his soul to the devil, it actually expresses the feeling of alienation of modern man and his need to understand himself and the world. Using an alchemical process, Pandur transposes the Faustian legend into the intellectual and emotional atmosphere of today and constructs his own poetics and truth. Together with the eternal struggle against the all-pervading evil, he emphasises the infinite longing for everything inaccessible or unattainable: family, love, youth, beauty.

Duration:

130 minutes inc. interval

A short description of the performance:

Shakespeare's Macbeth (1606) is one of the plays that reach deepest into the darkness of man and bare the motives of the cruellest acts. It is a spectacle of passion that results in the perpetration of radical evil and can be interpreted as a study of the anatomy of the darkest crimes. The evil of Macbeth is creepy, but strangely attractive, and it pervades the whole world, from the intimacy between the main character and his "innocent" wife, to matters of state and natural phenomena.

Duration:

A short description of the performance:

Valentin's dramatic acts are light, realistic, lucid, and simple, but at the same time everything about them is very special, unique, and authentic. His ordinary people ever so inconspicuously change into clowns, outlaws, and eccentric characters. The language he masterfully uses is often a pun distinctly demonstrating that nonsense still has sense. The dramatic conflict is based on absurd stumbling against the incapacity of language, and the unique humour mercilessly exposes the truth of our existence.

The key events reach from the end of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy through the rise and fall of Communism to the transition, democracy and European Union. The plot is focused on the destiny of four generations of women who grew up in the same house in Zagreb, once a sumptuous villa, later denationalised and divided. The events begin to unravel in 2011 when the family reunites for Lucija's wedding and finds out that Lucija's groom, a nouveau riche involved in questionable business, is about to purchase the house.

Opening night:

12 May 2016

Duration:

100 min

A short description of the performance:

The latest work by Russian playwright Ivan Viripaev presents two elderly married couples, astonishingly complicates their relationships and offers an intriguing dramatic story about love, fidelity and (self)deception. Despite the seriousness of its topic, the style of the play is communicative, suggestive and genuinely witty. Viripaev combines melodramatic structure with poetic reflection, fast dialogue with lyrical confession and the staged reality with numerous parallel worlds.

A short presentation of the producer:

Established in 1955 as the first professional theatre for children and youth in Slovenia. In the 80s, Mladinsko was gradually re-structured into a theatre which combined borderline theatre research and the thematisation of political subversiveness. Today, it is known for a wide range of innovative poetics and the Brookian approach towards acting, which is not based on star hierarchy, but on an acting laboratory connecting individual bravura parts into one strong performance by the entire cast.

Opening night:

17 October 2015

Duration:

75 minutes

A short description of the performance:

Rok Petrovič was – and continues to be – the only serial winner in the history of Slovenian male alpine skiing. In the 1985/86 season, he won five slalom races and thus obtained the season's highest ranking, leaving behind both the legendary Stenmark and the doyen of Slovenian skiing Križaj.

He moved as gently as his thoughts were sharp. While others were speaking, Rok kept silent. While others were running, he swam.

Swam away.

First, while still extremely young, into science. Later, into the depths of the sea. Into another dimension.

And stayed down there.

At home.

Opening night:

3 March 2010

Duration:

75 min

A short description of the performance:

In his original project Oliver Frljić radically approaches love and hatred towards theatre. The actors produce a scathing, disturbing, sometimes even shocking performance. They use wartime and political traumas to ask universal questions: about the boundaries of artistic and social freedom, individual and collective responsibility, tolerance and stereotypes. The theatrical framework of this laboratory is provided by stories from the break-up of the former Yugoslavia; the title comes from the last verse of the national anthem of this now defunct country.
